

Joint RCGP/NCIN Primary Care Workshop

‘Cancer intelligence for primary care’

Wednesday February 13th 2013

10.00–16.00hrs

The Ambassador’s Hotel, Bloomsbury London

In partnership with:

The National Cancer Action Team, Macmillan Cancer Support and Cancer Research UK

Aim: This workshop is intended for primary care clinicians who wish to understand the potential of the use of data to support improvements in the standards of care and outcomes for cancer patients and to find ways of integrating their advice into the National Cancer Intelligence Network.

Chair: Greg Rubin

| 13.45 | What information do GP commissioners need? | Matthias Hohmann |
| 14.00 | Patterns of emergency admissions for cancer patients in London | Melanie Ridge/Charlotte Williams |
| 14:15 | Workshop | |

Divide the delegates into groups of no more than 10, each with a 'team' facilitator and an elected 'reporter'.

Ask the groups to discuss:

1. What sort of cancer data (intelligence) would you like to see become available to inform:
 - Primary care led commissioning of cancer services
 - Quality improvement for the service to cancer patients in your own practice
 - Primary care led research?
2. To what extent would you be comfortable with data relating to specific GP practices being in the public domain?
3. How do you believe such data would be most effectively fed back to primary care?
4. In what ways could primary care clinicians most efficiently and effectively become involved in the work of the NCIN?

|--------------|---|--------------------------------|
| 15.15 | Coffee (During this period the group reporters and facilitators would meet to distil the key points from the group discussions and agree what should be fed back to delegates.) | |
| 15.30 | Report back of summarised conclusions | Greg Rubin |
| 15.50 | Action plan | Greg Rubin / Mick Peake |
| 16:00 | Close | |
